STATE CAPITOL NEWS

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO Cal., October 26—(UP)—Outstanding among capitol developments was the announcement by the state board of equalization that sales tax collections for the months of August and September, the first since the tax became effective, were far in excess of even the most optimistic estimates.

So far actual returns for the period total $7,287,569, and when accounts granted temporary extensions are filed the total is expected to be more than $8,000,000, as compared with estimates of $4,000,000. And the enforcement machinery is just beginning to function.

* * *

The immediate effect of the success of the sales tax is the improvement in the state's credit standing. The tax was budgeted to bring in $80,000,000. Now it is believed it will return more than $100,000,000 every two years. This will permit reduction of the deficit to between $20,000,000 and $25,000,000, or a "workable" point in the opinion of state officials.

* * *

Reactions to the announcement were twofold. The boosted income was seen as an argument for a reduction in the rate from 2½ to 2 per cent, or for the inclusion of exemptions for food and similar commodities.

* * *

With his customary flair for the dramatic, Governor Rolph ordered San Quentin prison officials to give Dallas Eagan, under death sentence, all the whiskey he could stand before he was executed. Comment was nationwide, although it is not uncommon to give a doomed man a few drinks before he is hanged. It isn't often, however, that a governor does the ordering.

* * *

Hotel operators have brought up a question concerning the state's liquor control act that has developed into a real controversy. Can guests bring liquor into a dining room or cafe and drink it with their meals. The state board of equalization said no. Judge Matt I. Sullivan, head man in Governor Rolph's group of advisors and a co-author of the bill, claims it can be done. A test case in court probably will be necessary to settle the question.

* *

After a series of hearings throughout the state, Edwin M. Daugherty, administration of the California recovery act, had pleas from barbers in every section with the exception of San Francisco urging a reduction in the price of haircuts from 65 to 50 cents. The San Francisco barbers held out for the higher price.

The deputy sheriff from Washoe County took the prisoner on Thursday morning back to Nevada as a Federal prisoner.

LOST EMIGRANT PRODUCES AGAIN

The old Lost Emigrant gold mine, between Soda Springs and Robertson's Flat, is producing good ore after a long period of idleness. Manager Harry Ramsey states 100 tons are milled weekly and that the company has purchased a leaching plant with a daily capacity of 100 tons. This will be placed in operation as soon as possible. Developed to a depth of 500 feet, the Lost Emigrant is said to contain a five-foot vein averaging around $25 per ton.

The same interests are preparing for comprehensive work at the Carlisle group of gold claims, near Emigrant Gap. Strong ledges of commercial ore are said to exist in this property, and large-scale activities are projected.

APPORTIONMENT OF GASOLINE TAXES IS MADE TO COUNTIES

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 26—(UP) — Apportionment to counties of $3,161,741.05 as their share of the $9,485,223.14 in gasoline taxes collected during the third quarter was announced today by Ray L. Riley, state controller.

Of the total, $11,446.39 was allocated to Nevada County.

Apportionment of the gasoline tax income, one-third of which goes to counties and the remainder to the state division of highways, is expected to give new impetus to local highway development work in keeping with the ambitious program well under way by the state.

According to Eric Cullenward, deputy director of the state department of public works, approximately $5,500,000 in construction work has been placed under way since September 13.

Contracts awarded total $7,200,000 but work actually has started on projects totaling $5,500,000, he said.

As a part of the program to relieve unemployment by means of the public works projects, local workers are being called in this order: veterans with dependents, non-veterans with dependents, single veterans and single non-veterans This preference has been made mandatory in most of the recent contracts.

In announcing the new apportionment of gasoline funds, Riley said the third quarter taxes show a drop of slightly more than three per cent as compared with the same quarter of 1932.

Based on automobile registration Los Angeles led the list of counties with an apportionment of $1,175,375.66.

ROLPH OBEYS ORDERS; WORKS ONLY HALF DAY — 12 HOURS TO HIM

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 26—(UP)—Governor Rolph evidently believes a half-day means just that—no more, no less.

The governor's Sacramento physician, Dr. June B. Harris, decided Rolph was in need of more rest from his duties in order to completely recover from a recent illness. He ordered Rolph not to put in more than a half-day at the office.

But, according to the Rolphian schedule a full day contains 24 hours. So, obeying orders to the letter, the governor put in 12 hours at the capitol the very first day after the edict was issued.

GRASS VALLEY WILL CELEBRATE GOLD DISCOVERY OCT. 28-29

Mardi Gras Hallowe'en Parade With 1200 Juveniles To Be Feature of Program

GRASS VALLEY, Cal., October 19—More significant than either of the past two Quartz Gold Discovery celebrations will be the third annual event here October 28-29 in view of the entire nation having gone gold conscious in the past year.

The position of this city as the local point for the greatest gold mining activity in the United States lends color and atmosphere to the two day celebration, which will be carried on more expansive lines than heretofore.

George McKnight's accidental discovery of the Gold Hill lode in October, 1851, will be recounted again at the actual site of the "elbow" outcropping on Gold Hill, Sunday afternoon, October 28 at 2 P. M. The Native Sons of the Golden West placed a huge marker on this spot two years ago. A chunk of gold quartz ore, worth $200 crowns the the marker. Handsome prizes will be presented the first five finishes.

In the early evening, a Mardi Gras Hallowe'en Parade will weave through the streets as 1200 juveniles will mask and costume for a dozen individual and group prizes.

The Gold Diggers Ball 1848-1933 will follow at the Veterans Memorial Building, with dancers in costume or informal attire. Chisler's Gulch will operate in the basement and an old German Beer Garden will be placed back stage.

The events have the sponsorship and encouragement of the Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce.

He drove the car to the side of the road and secured a ride to Reno to buy a new tire. In the meantime, the car was reported to the deputy sheriffs as being abandoned.

It was Saturday before Pemberton was able to get back with the new tire and he was picked up by the deputy sheriffs and placed in the Truckee jail. Rumors Unfounded As To Public Utility District Finances

Manager Edmunds Explains At Chamber of Commerce Meeting. Denies Rumors Regarding Financial Condition Of District and Says Collections Better Than Last Year

At the Chamber of Commerce meeting which was held on Monday noon, a discussion was held as to the rumors being spread around town that the Truckee Public Utility District was in financial difficulties, and the steps that should be taken to clear up the evident misunderstanding that many people were holding.

Manager C. Edmunds was called upon to explain to those present how the probable misunderstanding has come about that the situation might be clarified when it was brought up for discussion in the future.

In the past week, Mr. Edmunds stated, it had been brought to his attention that interests that were and have been antagonistic to the Utility District were circulating reports that a heavy tax was to be placed upon the property owners due to the financial difficulties of the Utility District. The financial difficulties, the rumer states, are due to poor collections and lack of finances. This is not the fact, as collections are better this year than for the same period last year, and sufficient funds are in sight to meet the bond and interest of the District when due.

It was the concensus of opinion that these rumors were largely brought about by the publishing in the Sierra Sun of the ordinance providing the mode and manner of assessing and collecting taxes in the Utility District.

When it was proposed to ask a loan from the government by the Utility District, it was found that it was necessary to set up a different method of assessment and tax collection within the district than was in force. The ordinance was published to conform with the requirements of the government. The assessment and tax collection system which was set up three years ago by the District through the County tax collector and assessor did not permit the flexibility necessary to carry out the requirements called for by the government, hence the new ordinance which was passed by the District appoints its own assessor and tax collector.

The Directors of the Utility District state that it it not intended now, or at any time in the future, as far as can be foreseen, to place any tax for the operation of the District, upon property owners.

INFLATION

By United Press

Would monetary inflation solve the nation's economic problems? California editors view the question from many angles.

On one point, however, they seem agreed—it would be difficult to adjust the purchasing power of money so that it would help those who need help and at the same time hold in restraint those who do not need help.

"There has been little financial inflation so far, in spite of all the talk about it," remarks the Redding Courier Free Press. "The government has had authority, but hasn't done much about it except by suggestion. The obvious desire is to inflate as little as possible and hold the big cards till last. Lately, with business groaning heavily about half way up the hill, and a new lift needed, there is more inflation talk. Something definite may be done about the dollar—though nothing that the public has not been warned of for some time."

According to the Hayward Review, "it is said that fears of monetary inflation and general uncertainty of monetary policies of the administration, have caused a drying up of sources of credit and resultant slowing down of the recovery program. Industries are hestitant about borrowing, bankers are reluctant to loan, because of inflation uncertainty. There is no capital loan market, and it is said by financiers that without a capital loan market business cannot expand, in keeping with the NRA hopes."

Plentiful money would, among other things, be expected to ease the vast burden of debt, said the Berkeley Daily Gazette, adding: "That debt, say friends of the plan, was nearly all assumed before the depression, in dollars similarly cheap, so there would be little injustice. For the same reason, they hold, there would be little injustice regarding savings bank deposits and insurance funds, because nearly all of them represent deposits of cheap, pre-depression dollars rather than the dear dollars we have had recently."

"What the President fears," comments the Salinas Index-Journal, "is that blanket inflation will immediately raise all prices. Without a corresponding increase in wages that would be a calamity. The farmers, who are among the strongest proponents of inflation, would gain nothing if they found that while prices of their products were rising so also were the prices of everything which they had to buy. Their position then would be relatively what it is now, and the position of the wage-earner, unless his pay check were increased, would be deplorable."

"It is easy enough to cry inflation," points out the Beverly Hills Citizen. "But it is hard to adjust inflation. The first thing inflation would do would be to bolster the stock market. Even the thought of inflation last spring brought in the sheep for the summer shearing. How many of them would be clipped? How much money would again be drawn in from the country for the Wall street vultures? It's a delicate job, this inflation job. The President will attempt it when all other methods fail."

"Responsibility for the early effects of inflation," in the opinion of the Orange Daily News, "is a thing not sought by the managers of a political party. We see the present administration holding out against its own inflationists, who are driving for action on the part of the government. One of the primary objections to violent price increases that result from depreciation of the dollar is that the wage earner must bear the first shock. Salaries lag behind prices and the worker's wage will buy much less than at present when the cost of living climbs. The political dangers of such a situation are obvious."

RUSSIAN WHEAT SHORTAGE

It sounds strange to Americans, blest with wheat until its abundance becomes a curse, read of the situation in Russia. That country, despite its vast acreage and farming population, seems unable to supply its own food. In its wheat sections public officials have been organizing children, from kindergarten age up to 16 years, and old men from 60 to 80 years, in addition to the regular workers, to help with the harvest. Apparently this is done not because there is too much wheat for the regular harvesters, but because there is so little that pains must be taken to garner every bushel. Children will glean over the fields after the reaping.

Care must be taken, too, to guard against sabotage by enemies of the Communist regime. Many farmers are unwilling to raise more than they need for their own consumption.

Even so, Russia's great handicap at present is economic incompetence, in agriculture as in industry. There have been a good many Americans over there showing them how to run their factories. Evidently they need an army of American farmers, with American machinery, to raise wheat for them. At present we could spare both the farmers and the machines.

AS THOUSANDS CHEER

INDIAN BASKETRY

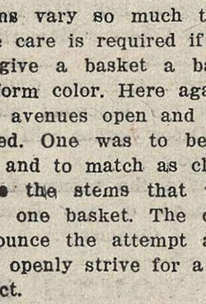

The color scheme is affected by the nature of one of the basket materials to which the southern California Indian women have become addicted. The Juncus Rush, which is one of the two materials showing on baskets' surfaces, comes in a great variety of colors, from a cream-white to a dark brown, with intermediate shades of yellow, reddish, olive and gray. In fact, the stems vary so much that considerable care is required if it is desired to give a basket a background of uniform color. Here again there are two avenues open and both are followed. One was to be discriminating and to match as closely as possible the stems that were worked into one basket. The other was to renounce the attempt at uniformity and openly strive for a patchy color effect.

Like many primitive peoples these Indians were very little inclined to turn their basket patterns into pictures. The decoration remains geometric and nearly always can be analyzed into fundamental elements of triangles, quadrilaterals, or bars. It is true that basketry, like cloth, does not lend itself readily to free flowing lines and curves; but that such effects are not impossible is shown by the ware produced in some parts of the world and occasionally by the Mission Indians themselves. On the whole, however, we can commend the aesthetic feeling which led the weavers to avoid such attempts; which from the very nature of the technique, can never be preeminently as successful as pictures, and which lose in decorative effects ten times as much as they gain in realistic representatives. Most of the few Mission designs that can be recognized as being pictures of something—rattlesnakes, birds, human beings, or the like, occur in comparatively modern pieces made after the weavers discovered that many white people take more interest in even a poor picture than in a beautiful geometric design that carries no meaning to them.—From "Basketry Designs," by A. L. Kroeber (Guide Leaflet American Museum of Natural History, New York)

HELPFUL BEAUTY HINTS FOR GIRLS OR HOUSEWIVES WHO ARE BUSY

By JACQUELINE HUNT

A BUSINESS WOMAN who must make frequent dinner engagements, or appointments, that do not allow her time enough to go home from her office and freshen up, may feel that looking attractive is a well-nigh impossible task. The woman who lives in the suburbs and makes an occasional shopping tour to the city and stays in town for dinner and the theater faces a similar problem. Both must depend on the beauty aids at their command.

MISS HUNT

The business woman must take advantage of her evenings at home for the important facials, manicures, massages and shampoos that go so far toward keeping her immaculate and lovely. On the evenings when she must refresh her make-up and give herself a speedy pick-up facial and relax as much as possible in a short time, she will have to depend on the make-up essentials that she keeps in her desk drawer and on the facilities of the rest room.

The out-of-town woman must remember to carry along her emergency make-up aids. If she owns one of the neat little week-end make-up kits, very well. They look like a pocketbook and they hold a generous supply of creams, tonic, pads, tissues and powder. Some of them even have rouge, mascara and eye-shadow. If she is not so fortunate, then she must depend on the things she can tuck into her handbag—and here is the minimum that will suffice for a pick-up: three little pads of cotton, three cleansing tissues, a tube of cleansing cream and a small flask of skin tonic.

The pick-up routine is the same whether you are a business girl or a shopper. If you are the latter, then any hotel, theater or department store restroom will serve as your downtown boudoir. But if your treatment is to be truly beneficial, you should go about it leisurely and as thoroughly as if you were really enjoying it.

Spread your necessary beauty aids on a little shelf, remove your hat and comb your hair straight back from your forehead. Now moisten a pad of cotton with cold water and go over your throat and neck. Turn the pad over and spread some cold cream on it and smoothe it over your face with upward strokes. Rub it for a minute and then remove wtih a cleansing tissue. Apply more cream around your eyes and mouth, massage this area for a minute and remove all the cream.

Saturate a fresh pad of cotton in skin tonic and pat it briskly over your face and up over your throat. Moisten the last clean cotton pad in more skin tonic, split it in two and hold the pieces over your eyes for a minute or two. Use a cleansing tissue to blot your skin dry, then apply a little paste rouge and dust your skin with powder. For such occasions as these you should carry a compact that holds a good supply of loose powder—the kind you use when you make up at home.

Near a shady wall, a rose once grew,
Budded and blossomed in God's free light,
Watered and fed by morning dew,
Shedding its sweetness day and night.

As it grew and blossomed fair and tall,
Slowly rising to loftier height,
It came to a crevice in the wall
Through which there shown a beam of light.

Onward it crept with added strength
With never a thought of fear or pride—
It followed the light through the crevice's length
And unfolded itself on the other side.

The light, the dew, the broadening view,
Were found the same as they were before
And it lost itself in beauties new,
Breathing its fragrance more and more.

Shall claim of death cause us to grieve,
And make our courage faint or fail?
Nay! Let us faith and hope receive;
The rose still grows beyond the wall.

Scattering fragrance far and wide—
Just as it did in the days of yore,
Just as it did on the other side,
Just as it will forever more.

Politically Speaking

By GEORGE E. HELMER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 26—(UP)—There will be no "Royal" license plates issued or Roman to gas worn at public occasions if Senator Herbert C. Jones of San Jose is elected governor of California next year.

Officiating at horned toad derbies is no job for a governor, and it isn't necessary for an executive to ride around in airplanes. Jones says he never has been in a plane and doesn't intend to start flying.

He believes a governor should look after the business of his office and not spend much of his time shaking hands with politicians and posing for pictures with pretty girls.

He takes particular exception to the issuance of "R" license plates which appear on automobiles driven by close friends of the present administration. Those "R" plates were supposed to make their owners untouchable. They don't work out that way, but it's the principle of the thing that annoys Senator Jones. If he had the authority to order license plates, he would make sure that no person or particular class received any unusual consideration.

Five hundred "R" license plates were issued last year. One thousand have been ordered for 1934—campaign year.

Senator Jones emphatically denies rumors that he may withdraw from the gubernatorial race. He will fight to the end, he insisted, running as a progressive in the fight for the republican nomination.

He will make an outstanding issue of the sales tax. He wants a "wealth tax" on personal income. He is supporting the Central Valley Water project.

On the subject of the sales tax, he is not opposed, openly, to the entire plan but he does feel that food should be exempted, and he has pledged himself to fight for that if elected. His campaign trips about the state have taught him there is considerable resentment against a sales tax on food. He believes this section of the tax places a particular burden on the poor, while wealth escapes its share of expense.

He supported the net income tax which Governor Rolph vetoed, and he intends to make it an issue.

His opposition to the "power trust" is apparent. He wants to trim down holding companies which he believes are responsible for the consumer paying several prices for a service.

"The Hetch-Hetchy project is a fine example of poor administration," he said. "For 20 years there has been no water from that plan. The Pacific Gas and Electric company has been taking its power for eight years, paying half a cent a kilowatt hour and selling it back to the people for six cents. And the people built the project.

"We don't want another Hetch-Hetchy—an instance of mis-administration that was under the executive leadership of the man who is now our governor."

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Curing Mouth Infections and the Importance of Cleanliness

By CLAUD NORTH CHRISMAN, M.D.

THERE are a great many diseases which attack the mucous membranes of the mouth and gums so that it becomes quite difficult to classify them. Most of them come from the same source or sources. In childhood, we have thrush. It frequently occurs at about the time of cutting the first teeth. The mouth becomes sore and hot; little blisters appear under the tongue and on the sides of cheeks. These open and leave a little white spot, which looks like curdled milk. It cannot be brushed off and may bleed a little if picked off.

* * *

THE baby becomes quite peevish, has some fever, mouth waters excessively, and he doesn't care to eat, because it hurts to nurse or swallow. The stomach soon becomes upset and the child may become uncomfortable. It is the result of unclean milk bottles or nipples or something he has taken into his mouth. If the baby is not well nourished or has some debilitating disease the mouth becomes exceedingly sore and the resulting infection may be one of the causes of a fatal issue.

STRICT cleanliness with everything that comes into the baby's mouth is the only way to prevent this trouble. In institutions where there is any carelessness in handling milk or bottles or nipples, it may become epidemic. Nipples should be kept in a solution of boric acid or baking soda when not in use. Boric acid mouth wash frequently applied with a soft cloth on the finger helps to cure. A saturated solution of Thymol — 1 ounce, Hydrogen dioxide — 1 ounce, Glycerine — 1 ounce, and saturated solution of Potassium Chlorate to make 4 ounces is a useful and helpful mouth wash.

* * *

MANY other mixtures are used all more or less acceptable. The mother's nipples should be washed before feeding and a few drops of milk discarded to prevent reinfection. In later life we have canker sores, a small inflammatory spot occurs at base of teeth, under the tongue or on the inner side of cheek. It becomes a blister, which soon opens and leaves a small rounded ulcer, which is sometimes quite deep and extremely painful.

* * *

ONE of the worst features is a foul breath and coated tongue. Swabbing with a 10 per cent. solution of nitrate of silver will usually control promptly. If not, a physician can apply a stick of lunar caustic. The gangrenous stomatitis occurs in debilitating diseases and may produce a very deep sloughing ulcer which is very serious and can only be controlled by relieving the cause of debility.

BANK OF AMERICA OPPOSES CODE REGULATIONS

Opposition to certain provisions of the code regulations proposed for the banks of California came to a head today when the Bank of America, in an official statement, went on record publicly against the blanket imposition of a meter-charge on checknig accounts, recommended by the Committee on Banking Practices of the California Bankers Association.

The attitude of the Bank of America, which operates 418 banking offices throughout the entire State of California, was voiced by Will F. Morrish, President, in a statement in which he explained that the suggested provisions of the Bank Practices Committee as they now stand, would "make a luxury instead of a public service out of banking.

"It has always been the policy of our institution to give the small depositor adequate banking service and we have always been able to operate profitably and can continue to make profits without penalizing the small account," said Mr. Morrish. "We feel that the proposed meter charge on checking accounts, in addition to the existing $1 monthly charge for accounts of $100 or less, would deprive the small depositor of a service to which he is entitled.

"Under the schedule of charges proposed by the Banking Practices Committee, the depositor whose checking account averages less than $100 would be required to pay the present government tax of 2 cents on each check he writes, the $1 a month service charge and the meter-charge of 4 cents for each check above the ten free checks permitted him. It he writes 20 checks a month the Government tax, the service charge and the proposed meter-charge would amount to $1.80, or an average of 9 cents a check. A depositor whose balance averages between $100 and $200 and who writes 30 checks a month would pay more than 6 cents a check. All accounts up to $500 would be similarly affected.

"The meter charge would also work a hardship upon the operators of business of seasonal nature. The farmer is an outstanding example. His bank balances run high when his crop money is on deposit, but during a large portion of the year he pays out cash without income to deposit to compensate for his withdrawals. Obviously, the meter charge would place the farmer's checking account on a cost basis which would be prohibitive.

"The results which will come about if the proposed schedule of charges is adopted are not consistent with the public interest, nor are they compatible with the goal which the national administration is striving to achieve through the NRA."

Mr. Morrish explained that the meter-charge proposal is not new, that it has been tried in California in the past and that proponents of the plan are today reopening an old issue.

"We can criticize the meter-charge in the light of our own experience," said Mr. Morrish. "As a test case our institution placed the system in operation in several of our branches, and not only have we determined not to expend it to include other branches, but we are planning to eliminate it in those few localities where it has been on trial."

The Bank of America is entirely in sympathy with the principle enunciated by the National Recovery Administration that general prices should advance in line with the increased costs of higher wages and additional employment, Mr. Morrish said. The institution also is in accord with the principle that banks, like other businesses, are entitled to receive the actual cost of operation plus a fair profit. They should not be permitted, however, to compensate themselves on a basis of excessive cost or by charges which are against the public interest, Mr. Morrish maintains.

"Expansion of credit is a primary aim of the recovery program," he said. "The small depositors of the nation's banks, through their accounts, are making their contribution to the nation's credit facilities. If undue taxes are imposed upon their accounts, their contribution must necessarily cease. Check money is the principal currency in this country and any brake placed upon it will greatly retard the recovery program."

HONORING THE BLACK CHRIST

IN THESE elaborately decorated canopies Guatemalan Indians are bearing images of the Black Christ, their native saint, to a plantation fiesta in celebration of the completion of the harvest. This saint dates back to the Conquest, when the Spanish priests, unable to convince aboriginal tribes that a white god could be divine, invented the Black Christ.

At this particular fiesta two images of the saint were honored. Accordingly a formal introduction took place before the celebration. The two images, surrounded with artificial flowers and enclosed in a glass-fronted box, were placed in canopies decorated with bright colored tissue paper. These canopies mounted on handpoles and legs were carried from opposite directions by two groups of Indians to a pre-arranged meeting place. Upon meeting, the canopies were tilted until their tops touched, and the images were thus introduced.

The celebration began after dar when a bell summoned Indians fr neighboring plantations to join th procession. The fireworks bearer took the lead f lowed by the marimb players, the two canopies and th celebrants carrying lighted candles When this weird parade came to a end, the canopies were set down i front of the ranch house, giant candle were set in a flickering semi-circl before them, and the Indians, one b one knelt before the images whil skyrockets sent sprays of stars across the midnight sky. Then the marimbas struck up, the pulque jugs were opened, the dancers began their strange bouncings and bobbings, an the fiesta continued till daybreak To witness such a celebration is the ambition of most travelers visiting Central America on weekly cruises between our two coasts, for these fiestas reveal superstitions and customs thousands of years old.

They went hunting with a small caliber rifle. Tiring, they sat down, Brayton laying the gun across his knees.

School Children Must Be Fed, Urges Federal Relief Administrator

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 26—(UP)—California must have no hungry children in its schools.

A letter authorizing the state to embark on a program of child-feeding for school children of families on relief lists has been received by Governor Rolph from Harry L. Hopkins, federal emergency relief administrator.

"This is to authorize the state emergency relief administration to institute a program of child-feeding in the schools for the children of families now on relief rolls, who are attending school, where examination indicates malnutrition and under-feeding," the letter said.

"The authorization is limited to the children of families on relief lists and is still further limited to one meal per day.

"The child feeding program is to be entirely under the direction of the local emergency relief committee or its authorized agents. Relief committees, however should not relax their efforts to provide in the homes sufficient nourishing food, especially milk, so that pre-school as well as school children may be properly fed."

Hopkins pointed out in his letter that there are probably 6,000,000 children throughout the United States in the homes of the unemployed now on relief lists.

"Considering the difficulty of providing adequate and proper food for children in the homes," he wrote, "I am anxious that safe-guards be established to the fullest extent possible against malnutrition among children."

Little Change Shown In State's Death Rate For Past Two Years

By MELVIN LORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 26—(UP)—While health authorities were fighting abnormal conditions as a result of the depression, California's death rate remained normal.

A report of the state department of public health shows there were 35,122 deaths in California during the first six months of 1933, as compared with 34,341 deaths for the first half of 1932.

"This is an increase of 781 deaths, which is about normal in consideration of the natural increase in population," the report pointed out.

In Nevada county there were 86 deaths during the first half of 1933 as compared to 82 during the same period in 1932.

"For some unknown reason, fewer deaths occurred in most of the northern counties, particularly Colusa, Contra Costa, Humboldt, Lake, Mendocino, Merced, Placer, Sacramento, San Benito, Shasta, Tehama, Trinity and Yolo," the report said.

"In Glenn, Modoc, Orange, San Luis Obispo, Santa Cruz and Sonoma counties the number of deaths remained practically stationary. Increased numbers of deaths occurred in all of the other couties with the exception of Imperial. It is probable that the extensive migration of Mexicans to their native land has had a distinct bearing upon the reduced number of deaths in this county."

Statistics of the department show that suicides increased at about the same rate. A total of 869 persons killed themselves from January to June this year, as against 824 in 1932, an increase of 5½ per cent.

"As is always the case, firearms were used more often for self destruction. Few suicides resorted to hanging, but more individuals used poisons, poisonous gases and cutting or piercing instruments. The number of persons who resorted to drowning remained about the same," the report said.

Turtle's Name Is Capone; Hard To Keep In Custody

NEVADA CITY, Cal., October 26—(UP)—Nevada county officials are finding it difficult to keep Al Capone in custody.

Whenever opportunity is presented, Al promptly takes advantage of it and escapes from the local courthouse. Recently he leaped from a second story window and hid in nearby shrubbery. He was recaptured only after an hour's diligent search by deputy sheriffs and other employes.

Al is a white-shelled turtle about the size of a dollar, sent to Miss Bernice Clemo deputy assessor, from the Chicago exposition.

Christian Science

In all Christian Science churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., a Lesson-Sermon will be read next Sunday, October 29, on the subject of "Everlasting Punishment."

The Golden Text will be: "The Lord knoweth how to deliver the godly out of temptations, and to reserve the unjust unto the day of judgment to be punished." (II Peter 2: 9). Bible selections will include the following passage from Isaiah 55: 6, 7: "Seek ye the Lord while he may be found, call ye upon him while he is near: Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him; and to our God, for he will abundantly pardon."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included, which reads as follows: "If the evil is over in the repentant mortal mind, while its effects still remain on the individual, you can remove this disorder as God's law is fulfilled and reformation cancels the crime." (p. 404).

UNUSUAL SPREE HAS BARBER SHOP MOTIF

DEL REY, Cal., October 26—(UP)—It was, police said, just one of those sweet-scented affairs.

They arrested Jesse Samarrom, a Del Rey laborer, on attempted burglary charges after he assertedly broke into a drug store and drank a bottle of lemon shampoo and a bottle of perfume.

RAILROADS DON'T NEED BLUE EAGLE DECLARES EASTMAN

The position of the railroads in respect to application of the national industrial recovery is briefly outlined in a statement issued by Joseph B. Eastman, federal coordinator of transportation.

The statement is in the form of a memorandum prepared for President Roosevelt. Eastman expresses the opinion that the adoption of a code for the railroads "would not be wise, even if it were legally practicable."

Declaring that the railroads are dealt with under the separately enacted emergency transportation act, as well as under such previous legislation as the interstate commerce act and the railway labor act, Eastman says "there is no need for a 'code of fair competition,' for the railroads, which "are subject to more comprehensive public regulation than any other privately-owned industry in this country, if not in the world."

He had seen no indications, he said, that railroad employes generally desire a shorter work day without an increase in hourly rates of pay and that it is both impracticable and undesirable for the railroads to increase their rates and revenues to meet an increase in wage expense.

SALTBUSH MAY CUT FOREST FIRE TOLL

VENTURA, Cal., October 19—(UP)—In an effort to reduce forest fire hazards, Australian saltbush a plant of great drought resistance and low inflammability, is being experimented with along the Coast range in Santa Barbara county.

Widespread experiments will be carried out this fall by the forest department in co-operation with the state university's agricultural extension departments..

Experiments made by J. W. Nelson, San Luis Obispo rancher, have proved the plant is admirably adapted to the region.

The plant would thrive along coastal regions, forest officials believe. Its use would also prevent erosion.

POLICE ANSWER UNUSUAL CALL

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 26—(UP)—Answering an urgent call, deputy sheriffs pulled Elmer Hileman, waiter, from the Sacramento River.

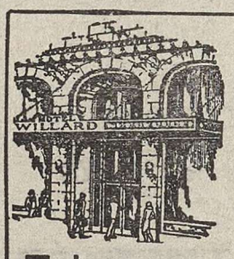

Explaining his long dive from a bridge rail into the water, Hileman told the officers he had intended to end his life because of domestic troubles. But, he changed his mind after landing in the river, he said.

The water was too cold.

NAVY NOW RECRUITING

Announcement has been made by Chief Yeoman Cannon, in charge of the Navy Recruiting Station, San Francisco, located at 100 Harrison Street, that the Navy is now accepting men between the ages of 17 and 25 for enlistment. He stated that the Navy is now doing selective recruiting, and that men applying for enlistment must be citizens, of good character, physically fit, not married, and of average intelligence. A high school education is not required. Men with police or juvenile records will not be considered for enlistment.

Applicants must make application in person at the San Francisco office, and as only a limited number of men can be enlisted in any one month, Mr. Cannon suggests that men residing in Truckee or vicinity take advantage of this opportunity and make application immediately in view of the fact that from one to two weeks is required to complete his investigations under the new selective recruiting system.

THIEF ROBS MAN AND THEN LAUGHS AT HIM

SACRAMENTO, Cal., October 26—(UP)—Local authorities are seeking a fleet-footed thief who not only robs his victims, but adds insult to injury by casting jibes at them as he flees.

William Brussel told police he was awakened from a nap on the sand near the American river bridge to find his trousers—which he had been using as a pillow—slipping from beneath his head. Opening his eyes he saw a young man speeding down the beach with the pants.

"Try and catch me," challenged the thief, as he disapeared around a turn.
